SCC - Student Created Content

I am a firm believer in this! The students create the materials in a simple fashion for practicing / producing language. The context is given and so they have an easy time to speak. Also, very simple and less work for the teacher!

These can range from brainstorming activities to projects. Using pieces of paper and having the students write/draw the content is essential. They can make their own word searches, bingo cards, worksheets, storybooks etc.....

I'll be putting up lots of SCC recipes here and find them under the SCC tag! They really help students get talking!
